Being fully aware of the worldwide need for a greater environmental sustainability, Comau intends to pursue the continuous improvement of its energy performance and the related reduction of greenhouse gas emissions, in full agreement with the values and policies of the Fiat Group.

In order to ensure this target achievement, Comau is committed to the implementation and maintenance of an Energy Management System for all its production plants, in accordance with International Standard ISO 50001:2011.

The system is based on the following principles:

- Environmental sustainability
- Continuous improvement of energy performance
- Definition and use of performance indicators, to verify the target achievement
- Promoting supplier awareness on energy efficiency matters
- Compliance with all relevant local and national regulations and legislation

The responsibility of the energy management system involves the whole organization, according to the specific role and competence of each employee.

In order to achieve this aim, the company will define and communicate the energy policy, the energy saving targets, the expected behaviours and the related improvement action plans throughout the organization.

Comau is committed to providing all the resources necessary to implement and monitor the system in order to achieve the predefined targets and to train, involve and promote awareness of all its employees and suppliers working inside its plants.
